Report of the Board of Directors of the Company to the shareholders

The following pages contain the audited financial report for the year ended 31 December 2024 for the 38 funds<sup>1</sup> that comprise Capital International Fund (CIF).

CIF is an open-ended investment company established in Luxembourg as a société d'investissement à capital variable (SICAV). Its assets are held in different funds. Each fund holds a separate portfolio of securities and other assets managed in accordance with specific investment objectives.<sup>2</sup>

Global stocks rallied over 2024, generating double-digit gains for the second year in a row. Driven by enthusiasm for rapid advancements in artificial intelligence (AI), US stocks soared, while other major developed markets, including Europe and Japan, generated mostly moderate increases. Chinese stocks bounced back strongly from a difficult 2023.

Most bond markets rose as many central banks around the world moved to reduce interest rates. With inflation softening, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) and the European Central Bank (ECB) both cut policy rates multiple times. Nearly all segments of the US bond market generated solid returns, led by a strong rally in high-yield bonds.

In key markets, US equities soared to record highs, bolstered by resilient economic growth, interest rate cuts and rising corporate earnings for most sectors. Overall, the S&P 500 Index climbed 25%, far outpacing gains for other global indexes.

European stocks advanced as inflation softened and the European Central Bank launched its first monetary easing campaign in nearly five years. Economic growth remained sluggish in the 20-member eurozone as Germany, the region's largest economy, narrowly avoided a recession. Overall, the MSCI Europe Index gained almost 2% in US dollar terms and nearly 8% in local currency terms.

Japanese equities rose as economic growth remained frail. The financials and energy sectors posted double-digit gains, while materials and utilities led losses. The yen lost 10% against the US dollar.

Emerging markets (EM) stocks rose for a second consecutive year, bolstered by China's significant stimulus measures and interest rate cuts in the US and globally. Stocks fell following the US election result in November and the potential for new tariffs but finished the year in positive territory. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index gained 7.5%. Chinese stocks rose more than 19% after three consecutive years of losses. Latin America was the only region to experience a decline in equities, weighed down by weakness in Brazil and Mexico.

Over the year, Capital Group's strategies generally delivered strong positive absolute returns across asset classes. However, they tended to lag their respective reference indices over the period. Exposure to US assets was the key positive driver behind the strategies with the strongest returns. Among the equity strategies, both growth-oriented and income-focused funds delivered strong absolute returns from their US equity exposure. Within fixed income, funds with investments in US high yield bonds generated the strongest absolute gains. It was a similar story for balanced funds with those focused on the US assets generating the strongest absolute returns.

Across equity and fixed income, weaker returns were seen in funds with exposure to European assets. In fixed income, funds with exposure to government bonds tended to deliver negative total returns.

A full breakdown of results can be found on pages 20 to 40 in their accounting currency. Results in other currencies can be found on our website, capitalgroup.com/international

Why do different share classes have different returns?

Each share class is designed to support the needs of different investor types and has a different total expense ratio that affects the investment returns for that share class. For example:

- Class A4, A7, A9, A11, A13, A15 & C shares and their equivalent classes, where available, are only available to institutional investors who qualify for the reduced Luxembourg tax of 0.01% (rather than 0.05%).
- Class B, BL, L, N, P, S, Z and ZL shares and their equivalent classes, where available, are primarily designed for distribution to individual investors. The management fee for class B, N shares and their equivalent classes, where available, is higher than for the other share classes to allow for compensation to distributors and other intermediaries for day-to-day services to investors or similar services in relation to investments made with their assistance.
- Class Y Shares and its equivalent classes are available only to Capital Group Investors, subject to conditions established from time to time by Capital Group, including the entering into of a separate agreement with respect to management fee and/or other fund expenses, which are not deducted from these Shares' Net Asset Value
- The management fee for class C shares and its equivalent classes, where available, is charged to shareholders outside the fund by specific separate agreement. Actual returns to shareholders of class C and its equivalent classes, where available, will be lower than those published.
- In addition, the returns of hedged equivalent classes and dividend distributing hedged equivalent classes are impacted by the passive currency-hedging overlay programme (see note 7 to the financial statements).
- For those funds without a specified reference index, a suitable illustrative index is displayed for context.

<sup>2</sup> Launch date is the date as of which shares are first issued by a fund, and hence the date on which the fund or share class was first priced. Prior results back to the launch of the fund relate to the older share classes, adjusted where necessary to reflect the management fee of the recipient share class.

<sup>3</sup> Investment results are shown in the currency referred to in the relevant class's designation. Lifetime returns are from launch date to 31 December 2023.
